

The GEORGE
Equine Vets

Autumn
newsletter

Please welcome Ellie Smith and Ella Lewis to the Equine Team! Sadly, we say farewell to Anna Jarvis who leaves us after a wonderful 7 years as part of our team. We wish her all the best in her new life by the sea!

Ellie comes to us from an internship at Bell Equine (Kent) and equine practice in Northampton. She enjoys all aspects of equine work, but particularly enjoys medicine and emergency cases. Outside work she has played polo at Uni, and is looking to continue playing here in Wiltshire. Her other pastimes include spending time with family and friends, camping and walking.

Ella is our new Administrator and has worked with the George Group before on our Sustainability team for the IIE Silver award. She is a former eventer and pony club rider. Her main interests currently are fun rides and hacking with her gelding Jenson.

Acupuncture

Are you interested in trying acupuncture for your horse - Or hosting your own Acupuncture Day/ Morning at Your Yard?

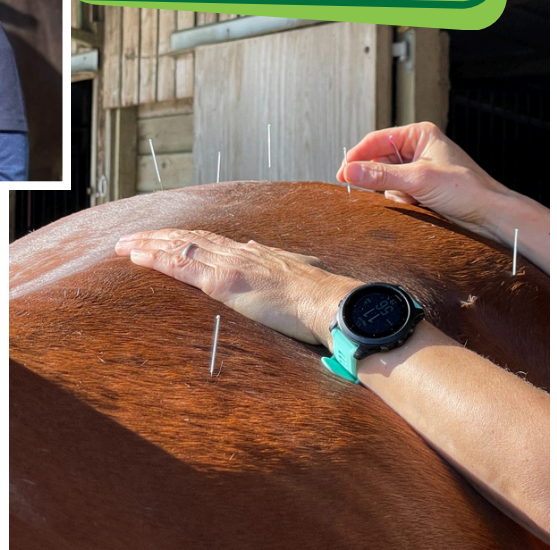

Acupuncture can be used to prevent and treat a variety of issues, from the geriatric to the performance horse. It is usually used as one of a course of treatments to manage pain (e.g joint or back pain, sacro-iliac pain), laminitis, alleviate allergies or to promote rehabilitation post injury or surgery and to generally improve ridden behaviour and flexibility.

How does it work?

Needles are used to stimulate nerve endings deep inbetween skin and muscles at acupoints (where small vessels and free nerve endings occur), to modulate natural hormones and endorphins, producing local and whole bodysystem effects.

Is it safe?

When done by a trained professional, this is a safe procedure that can be used alongside all usual therapies and does not require a withdrawal period.

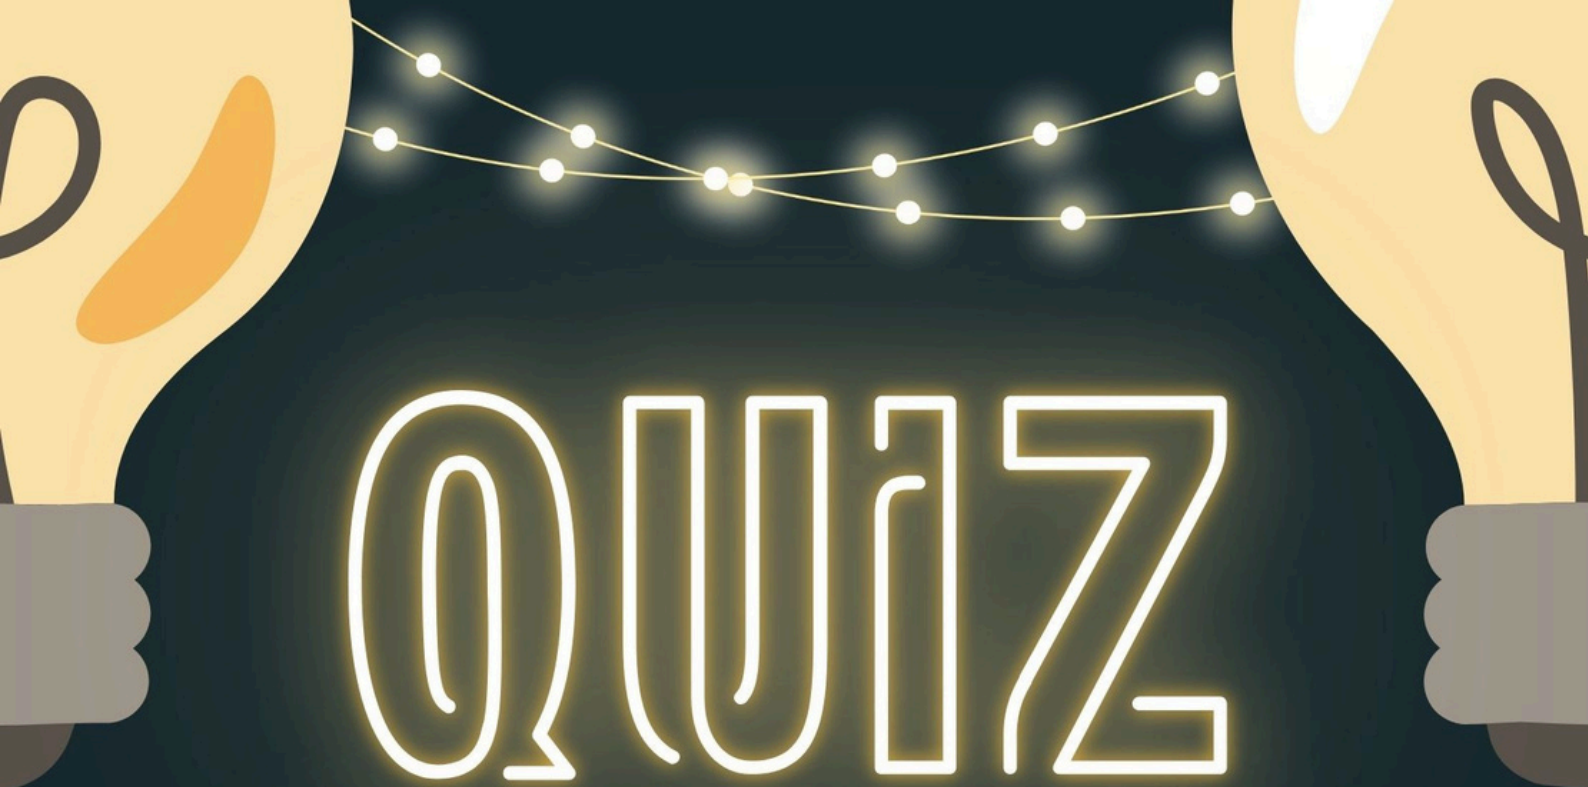

Winter worming reminder!

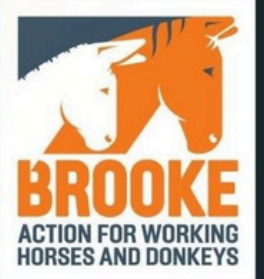

All the while we have mild weather, we will continue to recommend performing worm egg counts. Once we have had a continued cold spell (from December onwards) we will recommend that your horses and ponies have an Equest Pramox. Those of you on the Healthy Horse Programme will get your reminders for this.
